

“The Wildrose British Labs have the size, temperament, scenting ability and intelligence to make the perfect service companion for people with Type I diabetes, empowering them with the confidence needed to live a normal life in the community and the countryside. Our involvement at Wildrose in developing and training Diabetic Alert Dogs is the most rewarding experience I’ve ever been associated with in the world of animal training.”

MIKE STEWART

“As we drove down the highway, Mr. Darcy alerted to a low. Abi pulled onto the shoulder and checked her bloodsugar. Since Abi is unable to consistently feel her lows, this scenario could have been tragic without Mr. Darcy. He is an invaluable tool in the care of her diabetes. I cannot imagine not having him!”

WILDROSE DIABETIC ALERT DOG FOUNDATION

Wildrose Diabetic Alert Dogs Foundation (Wildrose DAD)

is a non-profit organization that provides quality Diabetic Alert Dogs to individuals with Type I diabetes. The Diabetic Alert Dog is an exciting new tool in diabetes management. The dog is trained to notify owners with Type 1 diabetes of low and high blood glucose levels, thereby allowing them to promptly make necessary corrections to avert the episode or lessen its severity. A hypoglycemic attack can lead to a seizure, coma, or death – making these well-trained dogs true lifesavers. The Diabetic Alert Dog's performance can result in tighter glycemic control, which decreases the likelihood of devastating long-term complications including kidney failure, retinopathy, neuropathy, heart disease, etc.

The Foundation's Mission

- To train and certify dogs to detect and alert for both low and high blood glucose levels in people with Type 1 diabetes
- To develop training methods and protocols for Diabetic Alert Dogs
- To train diabetic children and adults for the proper utilization of their dog
- To conduct public awareness campaigns for businesses, organizations, schools and groups to increase awareness of Diabetic Alert Dogs as well as the rights of their diabetic handlers (public access)
- To provide an educational resource forum for diabetics with dogs and those interested in the Diabetic Alert Dog programs
- To conduct training conferences to assist those with Diabetic Alert Dogs and those interested in obtaining one

The Dogs

Wildrose British Labradors are known for their amazing scenting ability, temperament, and trainability. Their instincts, intelligence, desire to please, and smaller size make them exceptional candidates for Diabetic Alert Dogs. Through an intensive training program designed for the dogs and their handlers, these exceptional Labradors are changing the lives of people with Type I diabetes around the world.

The Foundation

The Wildrose Diabetic Alert Dogs Foundation is housed with Create Foundation (501c3) in Tupelo, Mississippi. Funds donated to the Wildrose Diabetic Alert Dogs Foundation are used to support programs designed to deliver trained dogs to qualified individuals with Type 1 diabetes. The Foundation will support research, continued education, training and information dissemination about Diabetic Alert Dogs. Contributions can be made online by visiting www.createfoundation.com or send a check to CREATE Foundation, P. O. Box 1053, Tupelo, MS 38802, and designate the gift to Wildrose Diabetic Alert Dog Fund.

Diabetic Alert Dogs can increase the independence and mobility of a diabetic person providing them with confidence to conduct a normal life without the constant need to rely on others.
